Offerings of Musical Instruments to Haiti Orphanage Was a Real Hit!

Last summer, the Virginia-based band Melodime traveled to the Source of Light Center in Haiti to donate musical instruments to the children there. Melodime is part of the Now I Play Along Too organization and collected over 40 instruments for the center.

While at the orphanage and school, they held concerts for the children and taught them how to play the instruments. They also made contacts with local music teachers to ensure that the musical training would continue after they left.

See more about the experience through the eyes of band member Brad Rhodes, a Spence Network Uptick alum, through his YouTube video. Visit YouTube.com and search for “Now I Play Along Too & MELODIME Deliver Instruments” to watch the video.
