Summer: A Time for College Students to Engage in Ministry

Thanks to our fellowship with partners, both domestically and internationally, the BGAV is able to send out summer missionaries to places near and far for six to eight weeks. “We have a great group of students this year,” said Glenn Maddox, missions mobilizer. “We are excited to serve in locations that provide students with real-world training while supporting the ministries we have in place with our partners,” he added.

Venturers

• Alma Vela and Sarah Phillips are serving with the Lebanese Society for Educational & Social Development in Beirut. Alma attends Virginia Tech and is a member of Columbia Baptist Church at Crossroads. Sarah attends James Madison University and is a member of Round Hill Baptist Church.

• Drew Dellinger is serving in Vienna, Austria, with Cesar Sotomayor, a church planter whom BGAV leaders met through the partnership with the European Baptist Federation. Drew is a Virginia Tech student and serves as a youth leader at Northstar Church.

• Lindsey Hughes is serving in Yendi, Ghana, in support of More Than Nets and other ministries. Lindsey attends William and Mary.

• Hannah Strouth and Kristin Marker are serving with the Southwest Virginia Partnership in Nickelsville. Hannah is at William and Mary and attends Williamsburg Baptist Church.
while at school. Kristin is at James Madison University and is a member of Kenbridge Baptist Church.

Impact Mission Camps
- Mikayla Clarke is a returning Impact Staffer and attends Longwood University.
- Kyle Julius is a member of Falling River Baptist Church and attends Liberty University.
- Erin Waddell is a member of First Baptist Church, Richmond, and attends James Madison University.
- Meghan Young is a member of Olive Branch Baptist Church and attends Liberty University.
- Fiona Waddell is serving with Impact in Romania, after having completed her time as a Venturer in Austria. She is a member of First Baptist Church, Richmond. Fiona is working alongside Romanian youth in various ministries through the BGAV/Romania Baptist Partnership.

In addition, Fredrik Aasen and Amalie Lund, two students from Norway, are serving at the Impact Virginia sites.

Each missionary is writing blog posts and sharing pictures from their experiences throughout the summer so that Virginia Baptists and other supporters can know better how to pray for them. Follow their stories at bgav.org/2016summer.
